PATENT
P57016DISCUSSION

According to the Chinese Office Action, Nagura, et al., JP'987, discloses that this is composed of a pan bottom shape recessed part 3 formed roundly at a can lid 1a, an injection port 5 formed concentrically opened at the most bottom end of the recessed part 3, and a metallic ball 4 contained in the recessed part. A sliding surface material 11 that is non-soluble to an electrolytic solution is injected between a periphery of the injection port 5 and the metallic ball 4 so as to return the electrolytic solution that adheres inside of the recessed part 3 to inside a battery can. When an inside pressure becomes to be high by a generated gas during initial charge, the metallic ball 4 rises by the gas to release the gas outside the battery can. After completing the initial charge, the metallic ball 4 is resistance welded between the recessed part 3 to seal. Thereby, an initial charge can be easily performed in a normal working room.

Pursuant to 37 CFR §1.97(d), the undersigned attorney hereby certifies that each item of information contained in this Information Disclosure Statement was cited in a communication from a foreign patent office in a counterpart foreign patent application not more than three (3) months prior to the filing of the statement.

The citation of the foregoing references is not intended to constitute an assertion that other or more relevant art does not exist. Accordingly, the Examiner is requested to make a wide-ranging and thorough search of the relevant art.
